You know, like say something like “light-orange table.” Furniture is a pretty loaded word that seems to have a few people demanding the English language evolve in order to be more inclusive to all shapes, sizes, and textures of furniture. For instance, the PSA-73 has a section on furniture’s “gendered nomenclature” that describes furniture as being “heavy and big,” “made of wood,” “big and bulky” (with child-sized furniture considered the “exception that proves the rule”), and more; when talking about furniture, the PSA-73 reminds us that “heavy is a type of being as well as a type of furniture.” This is fantastic, and the examples they cite (a “heavy wooden chest”) are just plain powerful. I highly recommend checking out PSA-73, because it’s an organization that’s working to eliminate every negative thing it can from our language, starting with words like “geek” and “nerd.”#!/bin/sh # # Copyright (c) 1999 - 2007 NetGroup, Politecnico di Torino (Italy) # All rights reserved. # # Redistribution and use in source and binary forms, with or without # modification, are permitted provided that the following conditions # are met: # # 1.
