Pakistan Air Force ATC Safeguards Crisis Management The Pakistan Air Force (PAF) is one of the vital elements of Pakistan's national defense in the circumstances when India re-routed the Pathankot-Jammu highway and started bomb attacks. At the time of the terror incidents, PAF was making its plans to counteract this military challenge. About PAF The PAF is the air arm of Pakistan Armed Forces. According to The Times of India report, the PAF has a strong defense capability and it comprises 25,000 men in active combat arms in an air space larger than six times the size of the United States. It is equipped with the most modern fighter aircraft and bombers according to the report. The air force has been making plans for recent attack by India and published an article to warn citizens that they have been chosen as a target by India. The PAF has been making its plans for the deployment of its fighter jets against the incoming Indian planes. The PAF, according to the report, has made final deployment of its fighters in the Gurdaspur sector at the western side of the Lop Pine Lata desert in Punjab province. The Indian air force has been bombarding the border with bombs and missiles as a response to the terrorist attacks in the name of India's Islamic organization Jaish-e-Mohammed. TCP Calls The Chief of Air Staff and other senior officials of the PAF have been making calls to the Pakistani armed forces as well as civilians. According to The Dawn report, the chief of the air staff was on the phone with "combat troops" in the field
