Windows Registry Mechanic is a powerful utility that can help you repair, clean, optimize and tweak Windows registry. It can help improve system performance, fix error messages, remove toolbars, speed up Windows startup and increase the speed of Windows execution. Removes startup links like: or startup items like: Starting Points can cause problems on startup because they make your computer slow. If you find that you have to keep clicking on Start to start your computer then this is probably what's causing that. The best way to fix it is to remove all these Startup Links and Startup Items. If you don't know what these are then Click on Start and run Control Panel and there should be a item named "Add or Remove Programs". Remove those startup links. If any of these are active (yellow or red) then click on the arrow to the right of the item in question and it should be disabled. You can also use Quick Launch – Run. Removes toolbars: If you start to find that you have too many toolbars in your browser then this is probably what's causing that. All the toolbars can be located in Internet Explorer by clicking on the gear symbol in the upper right corner of your browser and going to "Toolbars and Extensions". Here you can remove the toolbars you dont need. If you have no idea what a toolbar is then find your browser and click on "tools" and then click on "customise". Here you can disable any extra toolbars that you don't use. The "Add-ons" tab should be the one you're after. Remove cache: If you find that you have no space left on your hard drive and you're getting errors when you start to search for a disk error then this is probably what's causing that. Cache is a file that is used to store temporary data on the computer. If you have a lot of cache space, you can use it to store web pages when you are offline to save on your hard drive space. Some cache space can be freed up by cleaning up the cache. This is called "cleaning cache" and
