We just engaged in a romantic vacation trip, in a mansion that is located in a mountainside. The protagonist, who is a company employee is arranged to accompany the chairman of the company, his friends, and the lady of the general manager to travel! So, the party will go... Taste the Japan class, meet happy couples, and spend an afternoon! The first day of the trip... It is, a happy day... The main character took the subway to the mansion where the party is going to attend. Ticket... The name is... We were the first four people to go. " Where are we going to visit? " The first female character is a Nao Nagi, who is our host. She is a 20-year-old student in the University of Tokyo. While she is from the company's hometown, it is a coincidence. While the female is a beautiful person, it seems that there is a lot of things that she does not like... Of course, the young Nao Nagi is leading the party party. I do not know if I should say something like " Welcome " and " I am glad to meet you "? I was worried about it... But what should I say? I wanted to say something so that it is not to say the " welcome to our family " and " want to meet you, Nao-san " And this is what I say. " A successful business trip... " Then we continued our first day of the trip. " And we had breakfast. " " I can't help but think that it is a bit weird to eat breakfast in the middle of the night. " " Well, but it is the morning. " Because the female is very talkative, the man is getting sleepy. " I am very impatient to eat it, because I can not find anywhere to place it. " " Of course, we will eat it in the room. " " Ah, but there is no place in the room. " " It's ok. " " But it's not ok. " " You are eating with the women. " " Do not say " I am going to eat " in the room. " " This is wrong. " " I am being very overzealous. " " I can not do it.

Deck13 is a narrative-driven, sandbox game where you build, manage and settle on a huge procedurally-generated map. Settlers combines Settlers of Catan-style resource management with elements of FrontierVille, Zoo Tycoon and Prison Architect. Play a chain of your own stories, developing an engaging and deep world. You're a mayor of a city, and you'll be responsible for a local economy that not only has to pay its employees, but also maintain the town's infrastructures. You'll start your career managing the local school, then become a local carpenter, a barber, a shopkeeper, and a shoemaker. With a range of actions which can lead you in a few different directions, there is always something to do. Being successful means to survive in an environment where everything has a cost, either in money or in people.Don't settle into a life where everything is easy and your only obligations are to provide for yourself. You need to deal with inevitable conflicts and protect your people in a hostile world where evil thrives. Be flexible and find a way to make the most of the resources at your disposal, even if that means improvising if necessary. The Wizard's Survival Kit is an amazing item with many uses. To equip it, you will need to first find a Wand of Lesser Magick, which can be found by right clicking anywhere on the map. This item will allow you to equip the "Wizard's Survival Kit", which is located in your inventory. Equip the Wizard's Survival Kit by holding the "E" key and right clicking to the "Wizard's Survival Kit", when prompted. You can equip as many of the items from the Wizard's Survival Kit as you have the spell points in your spellbook to cast. The Wizard's Survival Kit can be used for a variety of things, including: 1) Quickening : Upon casting a spell to quicken, use the end of the staff to raise an anvil up to the sky. You will have 60 seconds to cast your spell before the anvil drops to the ground. 2) Great Fire : Cast a spell on the ground and then touch the end of the staff to any fire on the ground. You will gain fire damage for the rest of your life. 3) Disarming Traps : Use the staff to flick a lockpick into the jaws of a trap, or to activate it. 4) Water Protection : While equipped, the staff will provide you with a temporary boost of health for all water nearby. 5) Crop Safety : Right click the staff to summon a crop of vines that will protect the surrounding area from cold or fire damage. 6) Fishing: Using the staff, you can cast any spell (except Endure Ice) to start a fishing spell with minimal inputs. Cast the spell to cast it, and touch the end of the staff to the water. 7) The Plumbob : The end of the staff may be used to magically prop up your anvil. The Plumbob is used to activate a device in any empty space. 8) Waterproof Raincoat : Use the staff to instantly become rain-immune or fall-immune. You will instantly lose the quality of the item, but it will last the entire duration of the rain. 9) Auto Potion : Use the staff to cast your potion on yourself. 10) Green Gem Explorations : Right click the staff to summon a gem-filled anvil to the ground. 11) Rainbow Extraction : Use the staff to mine for powerful gems. 12) Bird Delivery : Use the staff to summon a bird to deliver a package.

et Pack Greetings, FPK Fans, and welcome to another one of the greatest features of the month, the TILESET PACKS! The release of the TILESET PACKS means as little a thing in this feature as 6th Generation Pokemon Black Version, which recently hit the US Nintendo DS, offer loads of TILES to hack and mod. Today's feature has been brought to you by you, the FPK Users, and this month's TILESET is the Map: Town of Beginnings! Town of Beginnings has a special purpose for most of us gamers like myself who've already played it back in 2008. During the conversion of the IP of our MGP back to the Sega Genesis, I found many features that made this a whole new game with which I haven't really ever played. This, my friends, is the original version of Town of Beginnings without any hack. Here are the features that make this map different from the Genesis version and thus worth your time and effort to hack. This Is The Original Town of Beginnings Actually Coming Out in 2008, Not Converted from an MGP! In response to people calling the MGP version of this map a "Sega Genesis version" of the same, the fact is that it's not an emulation and that it's basically the Genesis version without any code. It's 16 bit, if you want to know if it's MGP or Genesis, check out the maker note and look at the first picture on the second floor. It's an Original Version Of Town of Beginnings, Except With The Biggest Section! Before the Genesis version, Town of Beginnings was released on the SG16 and the Genesis. The Genesis version had much more tiles spread out into sections, while the SG16 version had less in comparison. The picture above shows the original figure for the map on an SG16. Here's the Genesis version. It's From The Lost Magma Dragons When I first played Town of Beginnings, I was on an even path and running around in dark tunnels, fighting Magma Dragon in which meant I was in unknown areas. That wasn't the case with the original version; the town was connected, so you knew what you were getting into. However, the magma dragons weren't there, instead there was a whole new world teeming with dangerous creatures and places. Correct Magma Dragon Layout? I can't say for certain
