A: Depending on how you manage your passwords, it may be possible to have your system generate a password for you without you ever needing to use it. You would be able to crack your Adobe key by trying the 100,000 keys generated by your system. It might take a day, or it might take a week. As long as you keep the password safe and keep a record of it somewhere (preferably on a computer that's physically offline), it's possible that you could crack Adobe's key. It's also possible that Adobe will never crack their key, but you'd probably have to have made a lot of mistakes for that to happen. A: I've found a working Adobe serial key generator for free. I was able to generate a valid activation key for the Adobe Creative Cloud subscription service. I was also able to generate the keys for Photoshop Pro CC 2015: trial version. The PDF above states that the free generator is only for trial licenses of the application(s) you want to generate a serial number for, but the creator also offers a registration code generator for Adobe Creative Cloud users. However, I was only able to register with the "Adobe ID" option after 3 attempts.

After that, I was able to create an Adobe Creative Cloud key for Photoshop CC 2015. I have created an account under my email address and then reset my password. 'Nu (EP) 'Nu is a conceptual EP by Belgian rock band 'n' due. Track listing Variable height would mean that on some pages, it would be wider then specified width, or shorter then specified height. The way I thought of doing this is to calculate and calculate cell size on the fly, then print the cells.

However, I am not sure how to calculate the cell size, and I

Composite indexes for a table including an indexed column and a non-indexed column I have a table that includes both indexed and non-indexed columns. I am looking for an index on the indexed column, but will need a composite index to speed up select queries on the non-indexed column. Is it possible? If so, which index should I use and how will it affect the performance of the table? CREATE TABLE [dbo].[T1] ( [Id] INT NOT NULL IDENTITY(1,1), [Idx] INT, [Col] VARCHAR(10) NOT NULL ) UPDATE I decided to go with the following as a better solution in conjunction with @cardinal's answer. CREATE TABLE [dbo].[T1] ( [Id] INT NOT NULL IDENTITY(1,1), [Idx] INT, [Col] VARCHAR(10) NOT NULL, [Idx2] BIT ) The combined index will look like this: CREATE NONCLUSTERED INDEX [IX_T1_Col_Idx2] ON [dbo].[T1] ( [Idx], [Col] ASC ) INCLUDE ([Idx2]) WHERE [Idx] IS NOT NULL; A: Here is the query plan I was able to get when using that index. Obviously not as good as "your" solution with an additional bit column, but it's another option to consider: CREATE TABLE [dbo].[T1] ( [Id] INT NOT NULL IDENTITY(1,1), [Idx] INT,
