The present invention is directed to a rotor of an electric motor and, more particularly, to a laminated magnetic rotor comprising a plurality of magnetic layers provided with a plurality of integrally formed slots for receiving the windings of coils. A conventional laminated magnetic rotor comprises a set of laminated magnetic plates each having inner and outer magnetic steel plates and a plurality of slots formed in the inner and outer steel plates. Normally, each magnetic plate is formed by laminating together two steel plates by brazing. The slots are formed in the inner and outer steel plates by punching out. Subsequently, a plurality of magnetic plates with slots are stacked to form a magnetic rotor core for receiving the windings of coils. The laminated magnetic rotor core may have single, double or multi-layered structure. The slots are formed in the laminated magnetic plates by punching them out. Consequently, the slots have sharp edges. The edges may cause eddy currents in the rotor core and thereby reduce the efficiency of the electric motor. Furthermore, the slots of the magnetic rotor core may interfere with each other and thereby affect their mutual magnetic coupling.Search Greencastle's 10th Birthday on the Eve of the 'World's Largest Potato Chip' GREENCASTLE, Pa. - The Mountain Fair, the PIAA's Pennsylvania State Fair, continues this year as a celebration of Greencastle's 10th birthday.
