HyperMotion Technology was created in close collaboration with professional athletes and coaches. The technology's goal is to reduce the time and effort involved in re-creating play and highlight major moments and sequences that have happened on the pitch in real time. The technology was designed to be used in all areas of the game to engage fans with the game in new and more immersive ways. "We're extremely proud to be the first game to utilize this cutting-edge technology. It will transform the way fans experience their favourite sport," said David Rutter, EMEA Executive Producer at Electronic Arts. "We consulted with professional athletes and coaches to ensure that the footage they saw in real-time was accurate. After months of development, we're extremely excited to see how fans will react to the new technology and the experience of playing in the most authentic way possible." To capture the feeling and authenticity of a live football match, EA Sports turned to the most professional real-life football players from around the world who not only played as a whole, but who also tackled in the heat of battle and went through intense challenges and matches. Players featured in the footage included Sydney Lyon, Rio Ferdinand, Thomas Müller, Javier Mascherano, Bastian Schweinsteiger, Mauro Icardi, Aaron Ramsey, Laurent Koscielny, Memphis Depay, Zlatan Ibrahimovic, Serge Aurier, and Marouane Fellaini. "The opportunity to work with EA on FIFA 22 in partnership with EA SPORTS has exceeded our expectations," said Laurent Weil, Director, Sony Pictures Networks, ESPN. "We were delighted to be able to capture the game in the moment for fans around the world and really showcases some of the greatest players in the world." Developed by EA Canada, FIFA 22 was created using an all-new animation engine, which is designed to dynamically emulate real-world movement, and is now equipped with GPU-accelerated graphics, new physics and enhanced camera support. The gameplay, match engine, and AI have been re-engineered from the ground up, which provides players with a more fluid and connected game where players and teams are more dynamic, and teams are able to set up more quickly. FIFA 22 will be available on PlayStation 4 and Xbox One on September 28. www.FIFA.com www.facebook.com

FIFA has become one of the most popular videogame series around the world, with its game modes continuing to be massively popular with millions of players around the world. The highly addictive franchise has become EA Sports’ most successful entry into a sports game genre and remains the second highest-selling sports game of all time. The latest version of FIFA has a long list of improvements in the gameplay, visuals and modes. It is also the first FIFA where the user is the Creative Director of the game. It features a revamped animation system, lighter visuals and vastly improved match quality. Technical A new animation system allows for more natural player animations on the pitch. It also provides a more intelligent and refined facial animation of the players. The physics have been completely reworked and reflects today’s TV standard on smaller and up to date game consoles. The pitch has been reworked, with new transitions, natural grass, and a revamped flow of the ball. Real grass has been recreated, delivering a more authentic experience. The lighting system has been improved, providing the effect of a natural game with sunny days, cloudy days and snow. The game loads in and out of menus faster, and also allows for faster loading. Realistic crowds can now be used in all modes. The 3D crowd animations have also been improved and can now be used to pump up the atmosphere The last touch and shots have also been reworked, providing improved face of the players. FIFA 22 is also significantly more stable, taking into account the various recent release consoles. The gameplay has also been improved, with a better responsiveness and fluidity. The AI has been improved with smarter strategy on the pitch, and smarter and more varied movement. The 2D and 3D camera systems have been reworked in each mode. The connection with EA LIVE is very stable and allows for fully connected gameplay across all modes, as well as solo play with friends and matchmaking. The network requirements will allow users to play the match in real time and to have the best connection possible. “FIFA is one of the most revered sports videogames and is played by millions of fans around the world. While many improvements have been made to the gameplay and presentation, we are also focused on providing fans with a unique level of customization to fine tune the game experience. This season, we want to take everything to the next level
