The current situation is that I have 2 databases First DB is an inventory with an ID and many more fields Second DB is a list with an ID and a lot more fields. I need to get the list with the ID's from DB 2 into DB 1. I don't have any control over DB 2 and I don't have any control over DB 1. Currently I am getting the data into a temp table and then doing the query on the DB with that temp table. This is a bit slow and doesn't scale well when the DB grows. I am working in c# with SQL Server 2008. A: If you don't control DB1
